

Robert S. Cherry - Biography

Robert Cherry, PhD, is a senior staff engineer with the Idaho National Laboratory, a US Department of Energy laboratory. His background is in chemical process engineering at all scales from lab research to design and startup of major expansions in world scale commodity chemical plants. He has worked for Exxon Research and Engineering Co. in coal gasification development, for ARCO Chemical Co. in chemicals manufacturing, Duke University in bioprocess engineering research, and for the last 15 years, the INL. His current interests are in unconventional and synthetic fuels production.